SFMTA Hosting TEP Public Input Meetings across City

San Francisco—The San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency (SFMTA), which oversees all surface transportation in the city, including the Municipal Railway (Muni), today announced the details of its latest round of Transit Effectiveness Project (TEP) public outreach. Over the next few weeks, residents will have the opportunity to see and hear updated information from SFMTA staff about the Muni service changes that are being proposed within their vicinity. Feedback at these meetings will help to shape the project's service proposals, which will be considered at a March public hearing.

TEP OVERVIEW:

The TEP is a comprehensive overhaul of San Francisco's transit network. The proposed changes will modernize Muni and make it more efficient, reliable, safe and comfortable for its existing 700,000 daily passengers. Developed over several years of data collection, intensive planning and public outreach, the TEP will restructure transit service on certain Muni routes to improve efficiency and connectivity. It will also implement transit priority changes on the most heavily used lines to give buses and trains more priority on our city streets.

FURTHER DETAILS:

If residents are unable to attend any of the neighborhood-specific or the citywide meetings, the SFMTA also has created an online engagement tool at www.TellMuni.com as resource for San Franciscans to provide input on specific TEP projects. All feedback submitted through the online tool will become part of the official feedback process.

Established by voter proposition in 1999, the SFMTA, a department of the City and County of San Francisco, oversees the Municipal Railway (Muni), parking and traffic, bicycling, walking and taxis. With five modes of transit, Muni has approximately 700,000 passenger boardings each day. Over 1 million people get around this city each day and rely on the SFMTA to ensure safe and reliable travel by transit, walking, bicycling, taxi and driving.
